During the Civil War a Carré absorption ice making machine was shipped from France through the Union blockade into Matamoros, Mexico and then to the San Antonio Ice Company. By 1867, there were 3 ice making companies in San Antonio and only 5 others in the US.